(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Sept. 5.—(INS)—Assault columns of some 60,000 Red troops hammered toward pivotal Taegu from four directions today and swung around Pohang's inland flank in an effort to encircle that east Korean port.

Communist spearheads stabbed within ten miles north of Taegu and opened a new drive on the junction of Yongcheon, 19 miles east-northeast of the Allied inland anchor base.

The North Korean invaders also struck toward Taegu from the southwest and northeast in what a front dispatch described as the gravest peril yet faced by the vital stronghold.

Along the east coast, U. S. and South Korean troops unleashed a counter-attack Tuesday in an attempt to stem a Red push that reached within three miles north of Kyongju.

Enemy capture of Kyongju would cut Pohang's last remaining overland rail-highway route to both Taegu and the foremost United Nations entry port of Pusan on Korea's southeast corner.

While six Red divisions pressed down along the north front, U. S. Marines and Army units in a counter-offensive of their own forced some enemy troops to flee back across the Nakdong river west of Yongsan.

There the Americans were steadily whittling down a bulging enemy bridgehead which at one time had spread eastward from the Nakdong to within 12 miles of the Taegu-Pusan supply lifeline.

Heavy losses in men and material were inflicted on the Reds by Allied ground and air forces. A captured North Korean major told American questioners that "unless Russia gives us air support within 24 hours we are finished."

GRANGE MEMBERS PLAN COUNTRY FAIR

All Types Farm Machinery Will Be Exhibited At The Event

MEALS TO BE SERVED

NEWTOWN, Sept. 5.—The past few weeks have been busy ones for various members of Middletown Grange, working on committees, making preparations for the Grange's Country Fair to be held on October 3rd and 4th at Bannockburn's "Heston Manor Farm," located on the Lindenhurst Road, off the Newtown-Yardley Pike, R. 332.

This is the third year that Middletown Grange has sponsored a Country Fair at the above location, and this promises to be one of the outstanding affairs ever held in this section of Bucks County.

The fair this year will be held day and evening from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m., as arrangements have been made to brilliantly light the entire field at night, which will add many attractions over the former fairs.

Middletown Grange has two experimental projects on the Bannockburn farm this year; namely, an acre of potatoes, which were planted and cared for by a committee consisting of Isaiah Heston and Norman Tomlinson, who report that the project is doing very well.

The other project is five one-half acre strips of hybrid corn, planted and cared for by a committee consisting of Herman Heston, Jr., and Robert Kirkpatrick, and they report the corn looks exceptionally well.

General Eisenhower, opening the "Crusade for Freedom," urged all Americans to contribute funds for radio stations abroad that would "fight the big lie with the big truth."

COOK SCHEDULED TO GET HEARING HERE TONIGHT

Bristol Man Who Shot Another Over Wife's Love Now in Jail

HAD AN ACCOMPLICE

Harry C. Crosby is Under $3,000 bail in the Same Case

A Bristol man is scheduled to be given a hearing this evening on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill with a firearm and aggravated assault and battery with a firearm. The hearing is the result of the shooting of Wilfred Harry David, 40, of Gloucester, N. J., allegedly by Edward J. Cook, 38, 227 Mulberry street, Bristol, Friday evening at about 10:30 o'clock. Cook is now being held in the Bucks County Jail, and Harry C. Crosby, 332 McKinley street, a friend of the accused, is out under $3,000 bail, charged with being an accessory before and after the fact. The hearing will be held before Justice of the Peace Anthony Niccol, in the Bristol municipal building. David is still in the Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, with a .38-caliber bullet wound.

The bullet entered the liver, struck a vertebrae, and also the spinal column. David, according to reports from the hospital, is paralyzed from the waist down. His chances of recovery are said to be good.

The shooting, according to report, was the outgrowth of a "typical love triangle" between the attractive brunette wife of Cook, Roberta, 37, and David, foreman of a cardboard container plant on State Road, below Bristol. The Cooks have three children, and Mrs. Cook worked for a time at the cardboard plant.

Crosby is alleged to have driven Cook to the vicinity of the plant where he met David. Crosby is said to have waited in a nearby taproom to which Cook returned after the shooting. Then the pair is said to have heard an ambulance pass the taproom and they left immediately in a car driven by Crosby, who had borrowed the vehicle. Cook is also said to have borrowed the gun.

Nearly seven hours later Cook and Crosby were taken into custody in the sixth ward in Bristol and went to the Bristol police headquarters.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

Mr. Truman's request for $89,000,000 "to combat Soviet Jies" takes care of all lies-to-date. . . . After that it's just a question of whether we run out of fresh money or they run out of new lies first.

The figures aren't broken down but as the Soviet has had no more than 89 good, solid lies it works out to one million dollars a lie. . . . This is gross, no discounts.

Of course it means revising a few old saws. . . . We've had to change one to "Sticks and stones may break my bones but lies may break my wallet."

And our policy now has to be restated as "The truth shall make you free but we'll have to pick up the check."

Anyway it's nice to know that such a handsome job is going to be done in behalf of truth abroad and if there's any money left over we might spend a little at home.

That won't be cheap either. . . . You can't get much more for half-price than half-truths.

Holiday Death Toll Nearing the 500 Mark

By International News Service

The death toll for the nation's Labor Day week-end, certain to rise with final reports from the homeward rush, neared the 450 mark today but there were indications traffic fatalities may fall short of the National Safety Council forecast.

A commercial plane crash at Utica, N. Y., that killed 13, and Saturday's excursion train crash near Milwaukee, Wis., in which nine perished, were the worst accidents of the three-day holiday.

An International News Service survey showed 312 persons have been killed in traffic accidents since 6 p. m. Friday. The National Safety Council predicted 435 would die between that time and midnight last night.

Thirty-six persons drowned, according to the INS survey, and 82 others died in miscellaneous accidents. In 1949 a record-breaking 550 deaths were recorded.

One auto accident at Panhandle, Tex., killed five persons and another at Hopkinsville, Ky., took the lives of four.

Local Man, Frank Hurley, Among Those Hurt; 7 Injured at Trevose

ONE TRUCK OFF ROAD

Four accidents were investigated by police in lower Bucks County during the Labor day week-end. In the four there were 11 persons treated for injuries. Included was an alleged "hit-run" case in Bristol borough.

Two men were injured when the pick-up truck they occupied ran off Route 32, four miles north of Yardley at four p. m., Saturday. The truck was operated by Joseph Bernhardt, 33, of Ohio avenue, Trenton, N. J. According to state police, Langhorne barracks, the truck ran off the road-way, and was damaged to the extent of $500.

The driver, Bernhardt, and the occupant, Frank C. Chojnowski, 28, of Ohio avenue, Trenton, were taken to St. Francis Hospital, that city, by Union Rescue Squad, Washington Crossing. Bernhardt was treated for abrasions and contusions of the scalp and left leg, and a chest injury; and Chojnowski for bruises of the left shoulder and a back injury. Pvt. Arner investigated.

James Jones, 318 Beaver Dam Road, Bristol Township, is alleged to have been a hit-and-run driver here Saturday afternoon at 2:15.

Albert J. George, Bloomsdale road, was driving west on Radcliffe street and swerved to the left side of the road to escape the car being driven by Jones, according to the police report. Jones was going south on Jefferson avenue and is said to have failed to TOKYO—Wednesday—North Korean Communist forces captured Tabudong, 11 miles north of Taegu, Tuesday night and unconfirmed reports said the important port of Pohang on the east coast also has fallen to the Reds. The reported fall of Pohang, second only in importance to Pusan as an Allied port of entry, could not immediately be checked because of poor communications. Taegu, cornerstone bastion and supply center for Allied forces, was gravely threatened by Communist thrusts from the east and southwest as well as by the fall of Tabudong on the north.

FOR REAL INTELLIGENCE

Classic example of how not to run an intelligence service is the case of the enlisted man who detected the approach of Japanese planes toward Pearl Harbor, to whom no attention was paid. Intelligence reports that get buried in lower echelons, instead of being passed on to leaders forthwith, are of no use in emergencies.

The chain of command functions well enough in some operations, but as concerns intelligence, it works against results. An intelligence report, when it reaches a general or an admiral, is worse than useless if it is garbled and out of date.

Rear Admiral Zacharias, head of naval intelligence, has made vigorous criticism of intelligence methods. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, who succeeds Admiral Hillebrand as head of Central Intelligence, ought to keep in mind that "too little and too late" applies in intelligence reports as well as to troops, ships, planes and guns.

When Korean hostilities are ended and Congress gets around to investigating various phases of our being caught out there, the failure of intelligence, both in Japan and at Washington, ought to be a prime subject for elucidation. Either intelligence was poor, or top-level strategists, which would include those who made policies at the White House and State Department, did not know how to evaluate and make use of it.

FOOD EXPORT SLUMP

Farm crop exports in the government's fiscal year 1950, ended June 30, were lower in value than agricultural imports. This had not been the case since 1942.

In the last fiscal year imports increased 6 per cent, whereas the export cutback from the 1949 figure was 21 per cent. Before the war U. S. agricultural exports had been declining, and they fell off more sharply in the war years because the seas were infested by German submarines.

But in the four years after the war the U. S. was a heavy exporter of food, in which wheat and flour topped the list. The U. S. government paid for most of these exports.

The decline in exports in 1950 is regarded as evidence that Europe is producing more bread grains for its own use. Slump in exports of American wheat and flour topped 47 per cent. The result is that cotton has again become this country's No. 1 export crop.

Principal agricultural imports are sugar, coffee, wool, rubber, cocoa, hides and skins. These have mainly an indirect effect on consumption of subsidized domestic farm products.

American poetry is in a process of change, says an expert. Are they getting it to rhyme again?

In considering ways of winning the war in Korea, it has been suggested this country quit sending important supplies to Russia, to be passed on to the Korean communists.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Apr. 24, 1902. The Gazette, a weekly news paper published at Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

A party of five former Bristolians visited Henry Beck on Dorrance street, on Saturday and Sunday. They all came on their bicycles, riding from Hackensack, N. J., to Bristol. The party comprised: William Donnell, William Schelle, Fred Kobler, Christ, Liegler, and Jacob Keene. They were formerly employed in the paper mill here, and went with Campbell & Co., when that firm moved to Hackensack.

William Blackwood, who for many years has conducted a bakery, store and ice cream parlors on Mill street, has sold the business to John Ziesel, of Philadelphia.

After undergoing extensive repairs and relining of the stack, the Durham furnace in the upper end of this county was lighted on Thursday, April 17. Miss Elizabeth F., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron F. Baker, applying the torch at nine o'clock p. m. The preliminary announcement and special invitations brought together a large number of influential persons. After the party had finished sightseeing, they assembled and partook of an elegant luncheon which had been spread for them.

The Durham furnace, together with about 1000 acres of land and a practically unlimited supply of iron ore, has recently been purchased by the Durham Iron Company from Cooper & Hewitt, of New York, and by them has been put in first class condition. The furnace has a capacity of about 150 tons of iron daily, and with its supply of ore and lime stone, close at hand and convenient shipping facilities, it stands as one of the foremost of its class. Iron has been manufactured from this property since 1727, a period of 175 years, and during Revolutionary times, was one of the principal places for the manufacture of cannon balls for the Continental Army.

The centennial anniversary of the incorporation of the Fallsington Library Company will be celebrated fittingly on June 14th. There will be literary exercises in the afternoon and a musical in the evening.

On last Monday afternoon the residence of David Lyndall on Swain street was found to be on fire. A neighbor procured a fire extinguisher from the Good Will House nearby and put out the flames before much damage was done.

A slight fire occurred at John Weissblatt's clothing store on Mill street one evening last week. With the aid of some passersby, the flames were extinguished before they had gained much headway.

A young wife, who had not yet celebrated her first wedding anniversary, driven to desperation by the acts of a faithless husband, on last Thursday armed herself with a hatchet and went forth into the darkness from her home, and single-handed raided a poker joint in the first ward of Bristol, found her erring husband, made the gamblers give back the money he had lost, and then took the 24¢ a. m. train to Philadelphia, the home of her parents. The husband was left in the deserted little home to ponder over the results of his wayward course. The wife for a time had suspected that the money earned for their support was being gambled away, and, becoming crazed with being left alone at night, and possessed of the knowledge that the man... was out with evil companions, she armed herself with a hatchet, resolved to break down any barrier that was erected against her entrance at the place where she knew gambling was going on. After sweeping the poker chips from the gambling table the heart-broken wife asked for the money her husband had lost and it was given her.

WEST BRISTOL TWP.—Claxton Ely has been selected manager of the Y. M. C. A. baseball team. It was under his successful management that won for the Y. M. C. A. the laurels of last year, having defeated almost all the local teams.

able that in a body of men claiming the respect of honest people not a single voice should have been raised to protest against this laudation of a man whose unsavory record has disgraced the House of Representatives as has nothing else in a generation. One correspondent asks: "To what depths of moral degradation are we sinking?"

Certainly, it is easy to understand the indignation which Mr. McCormack's description of the bribe-taking Mr. May as a "great American" has aroused among people who read it. What induced Mr. McCormack to make so outrageous a statement is not known. He ought to apologize to the House and to the American people. It is not easy for self-respecting Democrats to follow such a leader and the popular resentment is not surprising. There ought to be ways of making this more effectively felt, and Mr. McCormack ought not to be permitted to get away with so indecent a "tribute" without a rebuke that he will not forget.

It is natural, too, that this should recall the action of President Truman in pardoning James Michael Curley, Democratic Mayor of Boston, who was convicted in 1946 on charges of using the United States mails to defraud. Two appeals for a Supreme Court review failed and so did a final effort to suspend the jail sentence on grounds of age and health. The Truman pardon freed Mr. Curley exactly five months after he began serving his six to eighteen months' prison sentence. Though unaccompanied by anything as brazen as the McCormack eulogy, Mr. Truman's action, besides restoring citizenship to this convicted Democrat, released him in time to spend Thanksgiving with his family. This seemed very kind-hearted indeed, but his most intimate friends have not suggested that Mr. Truman would have been quite so sentimental about a Republican crook just ahead of the 1948 election.

There is, of course, no link between the Messrs. May and Curley

If You Have War Jitters

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

OVER nearly all the world, families have fears and anxieties about war. Already in some homes of our nation there's a son or father entering the armed forces, a few of them at or near the front. Children read news of war and mobilization in the papers, listen to it on the radio, hear their parents and their playmates talk about it.

All of us parents and grandparents are praying that armed conflict will be limited to Korea. We still have fears that it might spread world wide.

Training Men

Truthfully, we parents can say to one another and our children that our national government is building more armament and training more men with the hope of preventing another world war. For us to emphasize this fact should help a bit to allay our fears and anxieties.

We parents can do most for making our nation strong by providing the best possible environment and family atmosphere for our growing children. In doing so, we also can do most to inspire with hope and courage the sons and fathers who leave home for the armed forces.

Strive for Poise

As never before, we need to strive for poise and self-control in ourselves. We need to do our utmost to provide as secure a home atmosphere as possible. We need to keep our attention on essential things rather than on luxuries. We need to emphasize thrift and simplicity in living. Most of all, we need as never before to keep our thoughts on the imperishables. We need to cultivate in ourselves and our children more spiritual interest and zeal. We need to work harder at our respective religions.

We also need especially to find ways to relax and loil so we can provide the best possible family atmosphere for the growing child. We need recreation. We need to have more good times with our children. They need playthings and playgrounds more than ever before.

More Expenses

But with more money for armament, more taxes, therefore, and with bare necessities expensive, we need to be more selective in the toys and tools and books and other reading materials and equipment for our growing children.

We need to read to our little children more and to inspire them now and when they are older to enjoy good literature and good music. (My bulletins "Books for Babies and Young Children" and "Books for the Child from 8-12" may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this paper.)

Use of Library

Although many children and whole families are denied access to public libraries, yet how few of those who live near libraries really use them. Even most parents who live in remote rural places go with their children to towns where there are public libraries without ever taking their children to these libraries. I wish I might prevail on these parents and all other parents, especially in these times, to go with their children, from three to twelve, to the nearest public library and inspire these children to borrow books therefrom to enjoy at home.

Our growing children today need parents who inspire these children at making things for fun at home from inexpensive materials and materials usually thrown away, helping them a little here and there and, most of all, appreciating their creations. Even more important than equipment are appreciative parents.

occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner and son William, of Richboro, and Miss Elizabeth Moran, Philadelphia.

As the Turner car approached the home of Harold Craven, Mr. Turner spotted a horse in the middle of the road. He reduced his speed and tried to signal the other motorists, but the car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Brown struck the horse, which had its legs broken and its skull crushed. The impact threw the animal against the machine operated by Miss Moran. The Brown car was so badly damaged that it had to be towed from the scene. The other vehicles were less seriously damaged, and the occupants of all the cars escaped uninjured.

well. During the two days of the fair, the above projects will be harvested, demonstrating the latest machinery. Any one wishing to inspect these projects between now and the time of the fair is welcome to do so.

One of the highlights of the fair this year will be the baked ham and roast beef dinners that will be served by the women of Middletown Grange. All who have attended the wonderful dinners served by these women in the past will not want to miss either dinner. During the day and evening various refreshments, such as sandwiches, coffee, French fries, ice cream, etc., will be available on the grounds. In the past two years Middletown Grange's Country Fair has had the largest amount of exhibits that have been shown in this section of the country in the past decade. The exhibits included all types of farm machinery, farm feeds, and seeds, many makes of automobiles and trucks, home appliances and radios and television, poultry equipment, insurance companies, household items, lumber and lumber products, and other varied exhibits. The actual value of the exhibits shown last year by 46 exhibitors was a quarter of a million dollars. This year promises to have an even greater number of exhibitors, and many new products will be displayed. Anyone desiring to make reservations for exhibition space should contact Mrs. Stanley Twining, "Greenbank Farm," Newtown, or "phone Newtown 2169.

There will be a cattle show during the two days, and arrangements are being made to hold the cattle show under a large tent. Any one wishing to exhibit cattle should contact either Charles D. Lowmes, Newtown 2278, or John C. Thompson, Newtown 2237, who are in charge of this exhibit. Indications at present are that most of the breeds will be on exhibition in various classes, and all cattle exhibited will be judged and suitable awards and ribbons will be presented.

Assault Columns of 60,000 "Reds" Hammer Toward Taegu from 4 Directions

The next two days our whole front was collapse.

(The U. S. State Department announced that a plane bearing Soviet insignia approached a UN ship formation "in a hostile manner" off Korea's west coast Monday and was shot down by a UN air patrol. The body of a Russian flyer was recovered, the announcement stated.)

A spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters said late Tuesday that the North Koreans have developed a "serious threat" to the Allied front by their breakthrough drive down the east coastal flank.

He said elements of the crack Red 15th Division have been hurled into this smash toward Kyongju to exploit a gap torn through the South Korean Capitol Division. Field dispatches said the Capitol Division had been thrown into a "near rout."

Striking south from Kigye, the North Korean Fifth Division already had severed the Pohang-Yongchon-Taegu highway in a 12-mile advance that carried into Kyongju's northern environs.

Situated 17 miles southwest of Pohang, the eight-way hub of Kyongju controls a network of rail and highway arteries leading west to Taegu and south to Pusan. Pusan is 52 miles below Kyongju.

Gen. MacArthur, in a communique issued at 3:50 Tuesday afternoon (1:50 a. m. Tuesday, EDT), announced that the enemy forces driving down on Kyongju from Angangni were "being attacked" by U. S. and South Korean troops.

Already deeply outflanked, Pusan's northern approaches also were under frontal pressure by the North Korean 12th Division bearing down along the shoreline highway. Here, the South Korean Third Division was resisting the enemy.

An International News Service front dispatch indicated late Tuesday that some Red units had wheeled westward after slashing the east-west highway from Pohang to Angangni.

The dispatch said a new threat to Taegu from the east was developing with a Communist push toward the key hub of Yongchon. That rail-highway center lies 25 miles west-southwest of Pohang, 17 miles northwest of Kyongju and 19 miles east-northeast of Taegu.

Along the front above Taegu spearheads of three Red divisions—the First, Third and 13th—were striking hard against the U. S. First Cavalry Division which, in turn, was counter-attacking at some points.

INS dispatch from that sector said the Communist forces were using artillery and mortar fire on the highway center of Taegu, 11 miles north of Taegu. It told of unconfirmed reports that Tabudong, at the "howling alley" route down a valley stretching to Taegu, already had fallen to the enemy.

A First Cavalry Division spokesman denied the report that the Reds had occupied Tabudong up to mid-day Tuesday. He said, however, that the Americans no longer are inside the town but still hold positions north of it.

Four miles east of Tabudong, other First Cavalry Division tanks and troops fought their way back into the walled town of Kasan "against very heavy opposition," MacArthur announced.

Kasan is ten miles north-northeast of Taegu. A front dispatch said an estimated 800 Red troops still were fighting the American units inside the ancient walled town. It said the Americans were reportedly surrounded by other Red units in the hills around the town, and that three planes made air drops of supplies to the U. S. troops.

The First Cavalrymen scaled a 2,700-foot height in four hours Monday night to fight their way back into Kasan. The high-elevation town is important because it overlooks U. S. mortar positions protecting the Tabudong-Taegu "bowling alley."

Cornwells Heights Miss Is Wed in Holmesburg Edifice

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—The altar of Holmesburg Baptist Church was decked with white roses and gladioli at the hour of four on Saturday when Miss Joy Patricia Tettemer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Tettemer, Cornwells Heights, was united in matrimony to Mr. Carl James Fankhouser, son of Mrs. Blanche Fankhouser, of Mayfair. The Rev. Herman Doh, Philadelphia, pastor of Andalusia Baptist Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractively costumed in a creation of white Chantilly lace. The features included a stand-up collar, V-neckline, fitted bodice with button front, a bouffant skirt fell from a gathered waistline and ended in a train of nylon net. The fingertip veil of nylon net was attached to a bonnet studded with tiny pearls and held at the sides with clusters of orange blossoms. Slippers of white satin were also worn. White roses, asters, gladioli and gardenias with an orchid center composed the bridal bouquet to which satin streamers were attached.

With yellow as the chosen color, Miss Anne Downey served as maid of honor. She was attired in a gown fashioned with marquisette over a fitted bodice of lace. The V-neckline extended to a point at the gathered waistline. The skirt was long and full with a girle of satin which surrounded the skirt just below the waist. Attached to this was a wide lace insert. The lower half was marquisette over taffeta. Detachable sleeves, gold slippers and a large, lace, picture hat completed the costume. She carried a bouquet of tallman roses, daisies and gladioli.

There were two bridesmaids dressed in gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. They were: Miss Lois Ludwig, Trevese, wearing dusty pink and carrying a bouquet of pink roses, daisies and gladioli; Miss Sara Scull, Cornwells Heights, in Nile green. Tea roses, daisies and gladioli composed Miss Scull's bouquet. The two attendants wore silver slippers.

Mr. Richard Clauser, Philadelphia, served as best man. The ushers were: Mr. Joseph Groner, Langhorne; and Mr. David Thompson, Philadelphia. The latter is an uncle of the bridegroom. Miss Marion Mathers, Philadelphia, rendered organ melodies. Mrs. Elizabeth Osborne, Philadelphia, sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony and two other selections, "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning."

The choice of Mrs. Tettemer, mother of the bride, was an ankle-length dress of peacock tone lace over taffeta, black velvet hat and matching accessories. An ankle-length dress of toast tone lace, with matching hat and accessories was the selection of Mrs. Fankhouser, mother of the bridegroom. Both wore corsages of orchids.

For her wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, the former Miss Tettemer chose a woolen suit of grey, white blouse of nylon lace, and dark green hat with a velvet brim. White gloves, a dark green handbag, matching slippers were also worn, as was the orchid from the bridal bouquet.

A dinner was served to members of the bridal party and immediate families in St. Charles' hall, Cornwells Heights, following the ceremony.
